1. This week’s lecture: Ancient trade and a shipwreck in the Java Sea

   Anthropologist Lisa Niziolek of the Field Museum of Natural History will present “Ancient Maritime Trade Networks and the Java Sea Shipwreck” at noon Friday, March 30, in Room 100 Campus Life. Around 1200 CE, an ancient trading vessel foundered in the waters near Java and Sumatra and sank more than 85 feet to the bottom of the Java Sea. Eight centuries later, scientists have recovered more than 12,000 artifacts from the wreck site. The Field Museum’s anthropology collections now house more than half of these. Although most of the ship’s cargo was made up of high-fired ceramics from China, the traders on board also were transporting earthenware from Southeast Asia, elephant tusks, resin, perishables, and more than 200 tons of iron. Niziolek, who received her PhD in anthropology from the University of Illinois-Chicago, will discuss what she and other Field researchers are discovering about ancient maritime trade in Southeast Asia by studying the remains of this ship and the goods it carried. To order a Southeast Asian lunch, submit an online request by 6 p.m. Thursday at CSEAS Brown Bag Order. To cancel an order, you must do so online by 10 a.m. Friday. Cost is $5 for students and $7 for faculty, staff and others. Pay in cash or by check. For lunch details, e-mail cseasbrownbag@gmail.com.

2. Alumni Connect career chat this week

   You’re getting your minor or graduate certificate in Southeast Asian Studies—now what? Here is a chance to explore one pathway with someone who is living the dream. CSEAS alumnus Shaun Levine (MA political science, 2006) works for MetLife as head of government relations for Southeast Asia, based in Kuala Lumpur. Join him for an Alumni Connect career chat at 3 p.m. Monday, March 26, in The College Grind at the Holmes Student Center.

3. Get your Fulbright on: Student workshop April 5

   Start thinking about that Fulbright fellowship early! The Division of International Affairs is hosting a workshop on the Student Fulbright Program at noon April 5 in Campus Life 100. The competitive fellowship program is sponsored by the U.S. Department of State is and coordinated in the US by the Institute of International Education. Campus Fulbright Advisor and CSEAS affiliate Taylor Atkins will lead the workshop, which is open to undergraduate and graduate students. The campus deadline is Sept. 5, but students are advised to start working on their applications early. For information, contact Sarah Lindell at slindell@niu.edu or call her at 753-9526. See details on the International Affairs website.

4. Notes from all over

   Congratulations to Center for Burma Studies graduate assistant Carmin Berchiolly, who has successfully defended her thesis in art history, “Colonial Burma as Commodified Fetish: Reactivating Photographic Images Through the British Empire’s Orientalizing Gaze.” Berchiolly will receive her master’s degree in May. Undergraduate SEAYLP Scholar I Younan (political science) recorded an interview with Voice of America Cambodia while on the Political Science Department’s spring break trip to Washington, DC. Younan, who will graduate in political science in December, said he talked about the importance of networking and offered tips on succeeding as a student. Currently the president of the Southeast Asia Club, Younan has been a Community Advisor for Housing and Residential Services and is involved in the National Residence Hall Honorary. He has been active in the Student Association and Model United Nations. He will receive the NIU Senior Leadership Award April 29 at the Kevin D. Knight Senior Leadership Awards ceremony. . . .

Congratulations to fall 2016 PKPI Scholar Selvi Panggua (Makassar State University [UNM]), whose research article “Self-Assessed Professional Competence of the High School EFL Teachers in Toraja, Indonesia,” appears in the International Journal of English Linguistics, Vol. 8, No. 2 (2018). Panggua, who is on the faculty at Universitas Kristen Indonesia Toraja and completing her graduate work at UNM, researched her article while participating in the Center’s PKPI program. The article was co-authored by Basri Wello and Baso’ Jabu of UNM and NIU faculty mentor Doris Macdonald. . . . CSEAS alumnus Thomas Rhoden (PhD political science, 2016) has a review of Hidden Words Hidden Worlds: Contemporary Short Stories from Myanmar, edited by Lucas Stewart and Alfred Birnbaum (British Council, 2017) in the Asian Review of Books. In December, Rhoden published “Party Preference in Myanmar’s Democratization Context: Counterfactual Study of Burmese Diaspora Voters in Thailand” in the Taiwan Journal of Democracy (Vol. 13, No. 2). Rhoden currently lives in Atlanta, Ga., where he works for CARE.

5. Save the dates: Career talks, Fulbright workshop, student conference, cultural events

6. Be a ‘home-bassador’: Seeking host families for SEAYLP

Join more than a dozen local families who have already signed up to be homestay hosts for the Center’s upcoming Southeast Asia Youth Leadership Program (SEAYLP). CSEAS is still seeking households to host either a pair of high school students or an adult leader from 10 Southeast Asian countries for a week during SEAYLP 2018. Homestay dates are April 13–20. Hosts provide a bed for each participant, breakfast each day and most dinners, all meals during any weekend days at home, and transportation to and from class sessions at NIU. CSEAS can help with transportation to campus if that’s an issue.

SEAYLP host family orientation is at 7 p.m. Monday, April 10, in the Sky Room, Holmes Student center. You can find details and applications on the SEAYLP website. For details, contact SEAYLP Homestay Coordinators Jenny Ruff at SEAYLP@jennyruff.com or Drew Wells at wells.drew@gmail.com. You may also contact SEAYLP Administrative Director Anastasia Kocher at akocher1@niu.edu. Check out what local families have to say about being a homestay host in NIU Today. You’ll be glad you did!

7. Spring student conference set for April 7 in Campus Life 100

The papers are in and the Southeast Asia Club is gearing up for the Spring Southeast Asia Student Conference set for Saturday, April 7, in Campus Life 100. Conference sign-in begins at 8:30 a.m., with lunch served after the morning sessions. The conference is free and open to all. Emory University cultural anthropologist James Hoesterey will give the keynote address after lunch. Hoesterey, who received his PhD from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, is the author of Rebranding Islam: Piety, Prosperity, and a Self-Help Guru (Stanford University Press, 2015). He will present “Diplomacy, Soft Power, and the Making of ‘Moderate Islam’ in Indonesia.” The Graduate Colloquium is co-sponsoring Hoesterey’s appearance. Awards will be given for best undergraduate and graduate paper. For details, email niuseaclub@gmail.com (put Student Conference in the subject line).

8. Guest professor to teach summer POLS class
CSEAS and the Department of Political Science will welcome Professor Xu Ke from China’s Xiamen University in June to teach POLS 395, Contemporary Topics in Political Science—Selected Issues on China. The summer course will cover current security issues facing China and Southeast Asia in the areas of cybersecurity, health, the environment, energy, transnational crime, terrorism and society. It will run from 1 to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday, June 18–28, in Room 422 DuSable. The class is cross-listed under HIST 391/591 and SEAS 490/690.

9. Latest podcast: Teaching about genocide and the Khmer Rouge
   In this special Southeast Asia Crossroads podcast focused on teaching about Southeast Asia, we talk to Cambodia expert and anthropologist Judy Ledgerwood as she explains how she teaches about genocide and the Khmer Rouge in Cambodia. Accompanying lesson materials can be found on the CSEAS website (click on the link for Teaching about the Khmer Rouge under Lesson Plans and Curriculum). Check out our other podcasts as well. Our listenership keeps growing. Since the series’ inception in September 2016, Crossroads podcasts have been listened to more than 6,000 times with listeners in 70 countries.

10. Hmong exhibit on display through April 14 in Aurora
    A modified version of the Pick Museum of Anthropology’s 2016 exhibit “Storytelling: Hmong American Voices” is now on display at Waubonsee Community College’s downtown Aurora location, 8 S. River St. The exhibit, In/Visibility: Hmong America and the Art of Storytelling, will be on display through April 14 and explores Hmong American identity through first-person reflections, textiles and artwork by Hmong American artist J. Tshab Her. The exhibit is free and open to the public through funding provided by the Pick Museum, the Dunham Fund and Waubonsee Community College.

11. Burnish your resumé with Southeast Asian Studies
    Add a Southeast Asian Studies minor to a bachelor’s degree or a graduate certificate to an advanced degree and pull your resumé to the top of the pile.
