1. This week’s lecture: Preserving the past in glass

Austin, Tex., contemporary artist Judy Jensen, a reverse glass painter, will present “Sacred Glass: The Wat Chong Klang Project,” at noon Feb. 1 in Campus Life 100. Since 2012, Jensen has been making new glass paintings to replace those damaged by a 2004 earthquake among a collection of 180 pieces in the 19th-century Buddhist temple Wat Chong Klang in northwestern Thailand. In her lecture, she will discuss the events that propelled her into this venture and the spiritual and artistic challenges involved. An exhibition of reverse glass paintings, Vanishing Art from Myanmar: Buddhist Reverse Glass Painting Traditions, is on display through Feb. 15 at the NIU Art Museum. To order a Southeast Asian lunch, submit an online request by 6 p.m. Wednesday at CSEAS Brown Bag Order. To cancel an order, you must do so online by 10 a.m. Friday. Cost is $5 for students and $7 for faculty, staff and others. Payments may be made in cash or by check. E-mail cseasbrownbag@gmail.com for details. See complete spring lecture schedule.

2. Apply for 2019–20 CSEAS fellowships by Feb. 1

The deadline to apply for 2019–20 FLAS fellowships—and the Clark and Arlene Neher Graduate Fellowship for the Study of Southeast Asia and the Dwight King Graduate Scholarship for the Study of Indonesia—is Feb. 1. The application and information on academic-year FLAS awards, which are funded by the U.S. Department of Education’s Title VI Program of Foreign Language and Area Studies Fellowships, are posted on the Funding page of the Center website. See the same page for applications and information for both the Neher and King fellowships. Questions? Contact Assistant CSEAS Director Jui-Ching Wang at jcwang@niu.edu.

3. Call for papers: Deadline Feb. 8 to submit for spring conference

The Southeast Asia Club invites papers for its 2019 Southeast Asian Studies Student Conference—Nexus: Southeast Asia—which is set for Saturday, March 30, in Campus Life 100. Papers may be submitted from any discipline on a topic pertaining to Southeast Asia; Abstracts due Feb. 8; final papers due March 1. Email inquiries or abstracts to niuseaclub@gmail.com (please put student conference in the subject). Best paper awards will be given for undergraduate and graduate papers. The keynote speaker will be ethnomusicologist Andrew Weintraub (PhD University of California-Berkeley), professor in the University of Pittsburgh’s Department of Music specializing in the music of Southeast Asia, specifically Indonesian performing arts and more broadly in ethnomusicology and cultural theory. He is also the founder and lead singer of the Pittsburgh-based band Dangdut Cowboys, which plays dangdut, an Indonesian folk/pop music genre. The NIU Graduate Colloquium and School of Music are co-sponsoring Weintraub’s visit to NIU.
4. Special graduate seminar on Buddhist politics set for Feb. 8

University of Toronto political scientist Matthew Walton will conduct a short graduate seminar, “Human Nature and Buddhist Politics in the Aggañña Sutta: Contrasting Interpretations from Burma and Thailand,” from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Feb. 8 in Campus Life 100. The seminar precedes his CSEAS Friday brownbag lecture, which will take place in the same location at noon. Walton’s seminar will explore what Peter Jackson has called the “interpretive plasticity” of Buddhist concepts by examining the ways in which two Buddhist thinkers from Burma and Thailand have interpreted and drawn upon a particular Theravada Buddhist text to defend divergent political systems and ideologies. In preparation, students will be asked to read the Aggañña Sutta, a short talk by Buddhadāsa and a short excerpt from an essay by Aung San prior to the seminar. To RSVP (required), contact Political Science Professor Andrea Radasanu at aradasanu@niu.edu. The seminar is co-sponsored by the Tocqueville Forum in Political Science and CSEAS.

5. Center associates update: Travel and more travel

* Kheang Un (Political Science) traveled to Sweden and Cambodia over the break. In Sweden, he presented “China’s ‘No Strings Attached’: Aiding the Status Quo in Cambodia” Dec. 7 at Focus Asia 2018 at the Center for East and South-East Asian Studies at Lund University. In Cambodia, he presented to present “Ascending Dragon’s Engagement in Cambodia: Opportunities and Challenges” at the National Institute of Diplomacy and International Relations and the Cambodia Development Center.

* Melissa Lenczewski (Geology and Environmental Geosciences) has published “Water Quality and Physical Hydrogeology of the Amarapura Township, Mandalay, Myanmar” with former FLAS fellow Michael Grzybowski and YeeYee Oo in Hydrogeology Journal.

* Alan Potkin (CSEAS) is traveling to Thailand and Myanmar Feb. 4 to March 12 to conduct hydro-ecological field research in both countries.

6. Looking ahead: Summer Research Opportunities Program

The Office of Student Engagement and Experiential Learning (OSEEL) offers an eight-week Summer Research Opportunities Program (SORP) for undergraduate students to conduct paid, faculty-mentored research in their field of study. Students are required to commit to 40 hours per week, present at the Summer Research Symposium on campus, and participate in supplemental activities. Chosen students will receive a $3,500 stipend and optional free on-campus housing. Applications due: March 11. For details, see the OSEEL website.

7. Southeast Asia Crossroads: Check out our newest podcast

Get those earbuds on and take a listen to CSEAS’s Southeast Asia Crossroads podcast series (more than 10,500 listens since its debut in September 2016). In our latest conversation, host Eric Jones talks to historian Vicente Rafael, Costigan Endowed Professor at the University of Washington, about “The Trauma of Witnessing: Photographing the Philippine Drug War.” Rafael is studying the role of photojournalism as an act of witnessing the Duterte regime’s war on drugs in the Philippines. Our following keeps growing around the world with listeners in 70 countries as we cover topics from history and politics to art and culture.

8. Be a ‘home-bassador’ for spring SEA youth exchange programs

CSEAS is actively seeking homestay hosts in April and May for two Southeast Asia youth exchange programs that have brought talented students and young adults to NIU for leadership development training for 15 years. This engaging cultural opportunity, lasting between one week and two weeks, is open to families and individuals.

CSEAS is looking for 30 households to host 50 high school students and 10 adult leaders from ten Southeast Asian countries for the Southeast Asia Youth Leadership Program (SEAYLP). SEAYLP Homestay dates are April 13–20. Students are placed in pairs while adults in pairs or singles. Hosts provide a bed for each participant, breakfast each day and most dinners, all meals during any weekend days at home, and transportation to and from class sessions at NIU. See the SEAYLP website for program details and online application. For more information, contact Homestay Coordinator Susan Edwards at se3279@gmail.com or SEAYLP Administrative Director Anastasia Kocher at akocher1@niu.edu.

CSEAS is also seeking host families in April for the Philippine Youth Leadership Program (PYLP), which for 15 years has brought young people and adult leaders from Mindanao in the Philippines to NIU for four weeks of leadership and conflict resolution training. As with SEAYLP, students are placed in pairs and adult leaders in pairs or as singles. PYLP homestay dates are April 21 to May 5. Contact PYLP Administrative Director Karla Findley at kfindley1@niu.edu or Homestay Coordinator Nancy Melms at nsteckelbergmelms@niu.edu for details.

The U.S. Department of State Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs funds both SEAYLP and PYLP.

10. Study Indonesian, other SEA languages through Boren awards

The Indonesian Flagship Language Initiative, begun in 2017, is a fully funded David L. Boren language-study scholarship aimed specifically at increasing the number of Indonesian-speakers in the U.S. This summer/fall program is open to U.S. citizens who are either beginning Indonesian language instruction or who have already begun study. It begins with an eight-week Indonesian language program at the University of Wisconsin-Madison’s Southeast Asian Studies Summer Institute, followed by a fall program in Indonesia at the State University of Malang administered by the American Councils for International Education. Awardees are encouraged to request funding to stay in Indonesia after the fall language program is complete and participate in study abroad programs they identify on their own. Both undergraduates and graduate students may apply (Feb. 7 deadline for undergrads, Jan. 30 deadline for graduate students). Boren graduate fellowships and undergraduate scholarships offer fully funded opportunities to study other SEA languages as well. Deadlines to apply are same as above. The Boren advisor at NIU is Study Abroad Director Anne Seitzinger; contact her at aseitz@niu.edu.

11. Advanced language programs offer more funded chances to study abroad
Studying a Southeast Asian language in-country: Highly desirable. Studying a Southeast Asian language fully or partially funded: Priceless. These programs offer varying levels of funding and the chance to learn overseas:

- United States-Indonesia Society scholarships: Applications open for U.S. juniors, seniors or graduate students, ages 18-30, to apply for May 23–Aug. 1 summer language and culture program in Indonesia. Applicants pay $2,000 toward program fees and transportation to and from Indonesia; all other fees covered by USINDO. See USINDO website. Deadline to apply: Feb. 8.

- Advanced Study of Khmer (ASK): Intensive six-week program June 10–August 2 in Phnom Penh and Siem Reap, Cambodia. Coordinated through University of Hawai’i-Manoa in collaboration with the Center for Khmer Studies and the Institute of Foreign Languages in Cambodia. Deadline to apply: Feb. 28. Partial funding available. See ASK website.

12. Apply online for graduate conference travel
The Graduate School is inviting degree-seeking graduate students in good academic standing to submit travel grant proposals for the 2018–19 academic year. Students invited to present results of their original research or creative activity at a professional may submit a proposal for matching funding through their department to the Graduate School; students must secure $200 to $500 in department or college funding in order to secure the matching funds from the Graduate School. Apply online by March 15.

13. Burnish your resumé with Southeast Asian Studies
Add a Southeast Asian Studies minor to a bachelor’s degree or a graduate certificate to an advanced degree and pull your resumé to the top of the pile. Visit the CSEAS website or stop by CSEAS at 520 College View Court. Undergraduates should contact adviser Matt Jagel at mjagel2@niu.edu; graduate students should contact Assistant Director Jui-Ching Wang at jcwang@niu.edu.
